EDITOR'S NOTE

"There can be no progress except in the individual and by the individual himself."

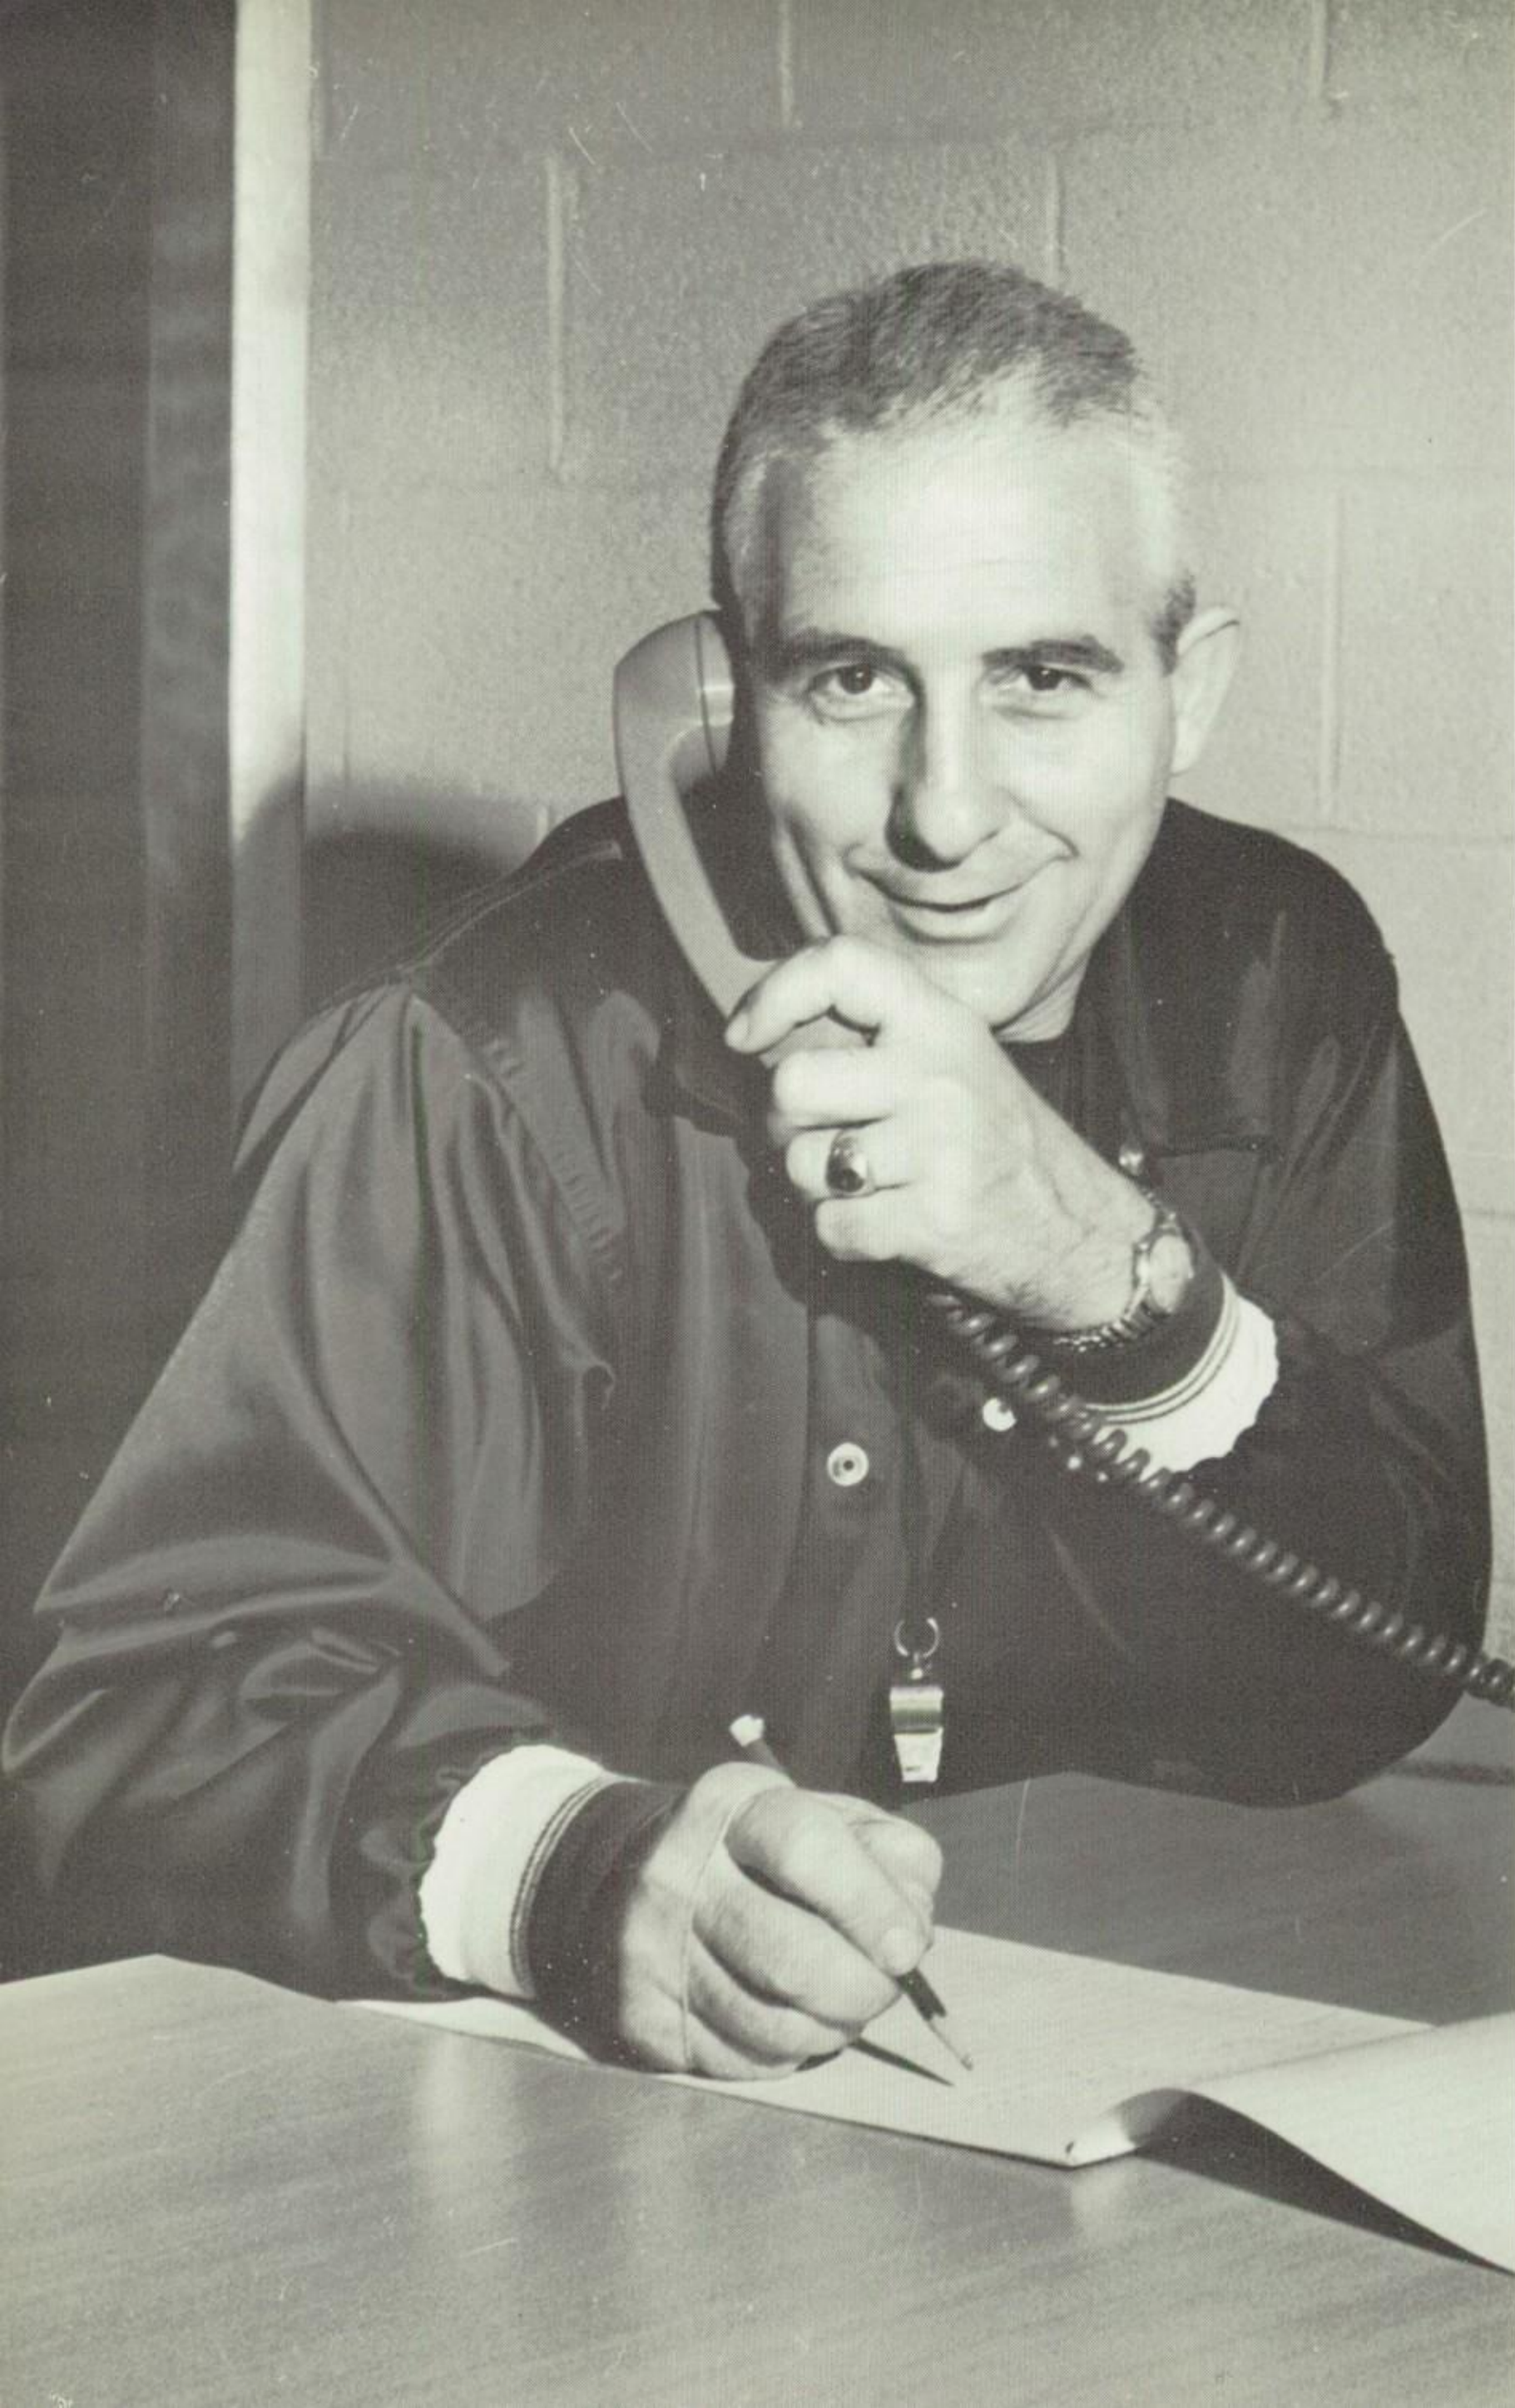

CHARLES BAUDELAIRE

Without the efforts of the individual members of an organization, the progress of the organization would be curtailed. So it is at Ramapo, where individual personalities help mold the standards of the school in scholarship, in athletics, and in extra-curricular accomplishments. Without these endeavors, there could be no advancement.

In this world where togetherness is too often stressed, we of Ad Astra have chosen to emphasize individuality.

JOAN ALLETAG
Editor-in-chief

DEDICATION

This tribute is based on a man's devotion to a school and its spirit. Known as "Mr. Ramapo," this individual leads the school's spirit by his personal enthusiasm, rousing pep assemblies, and sincere "Go Ramapo" after morning announcements. He is a man who gives his best to the school and tries his utmost to bring forth the best in its students.

We, the class of nineteen hundred sixty-three dedicate this book to
MR. HENRY RUMANA

PROLOGUE

Void of all movement . . .

. . . the school awaits . . .

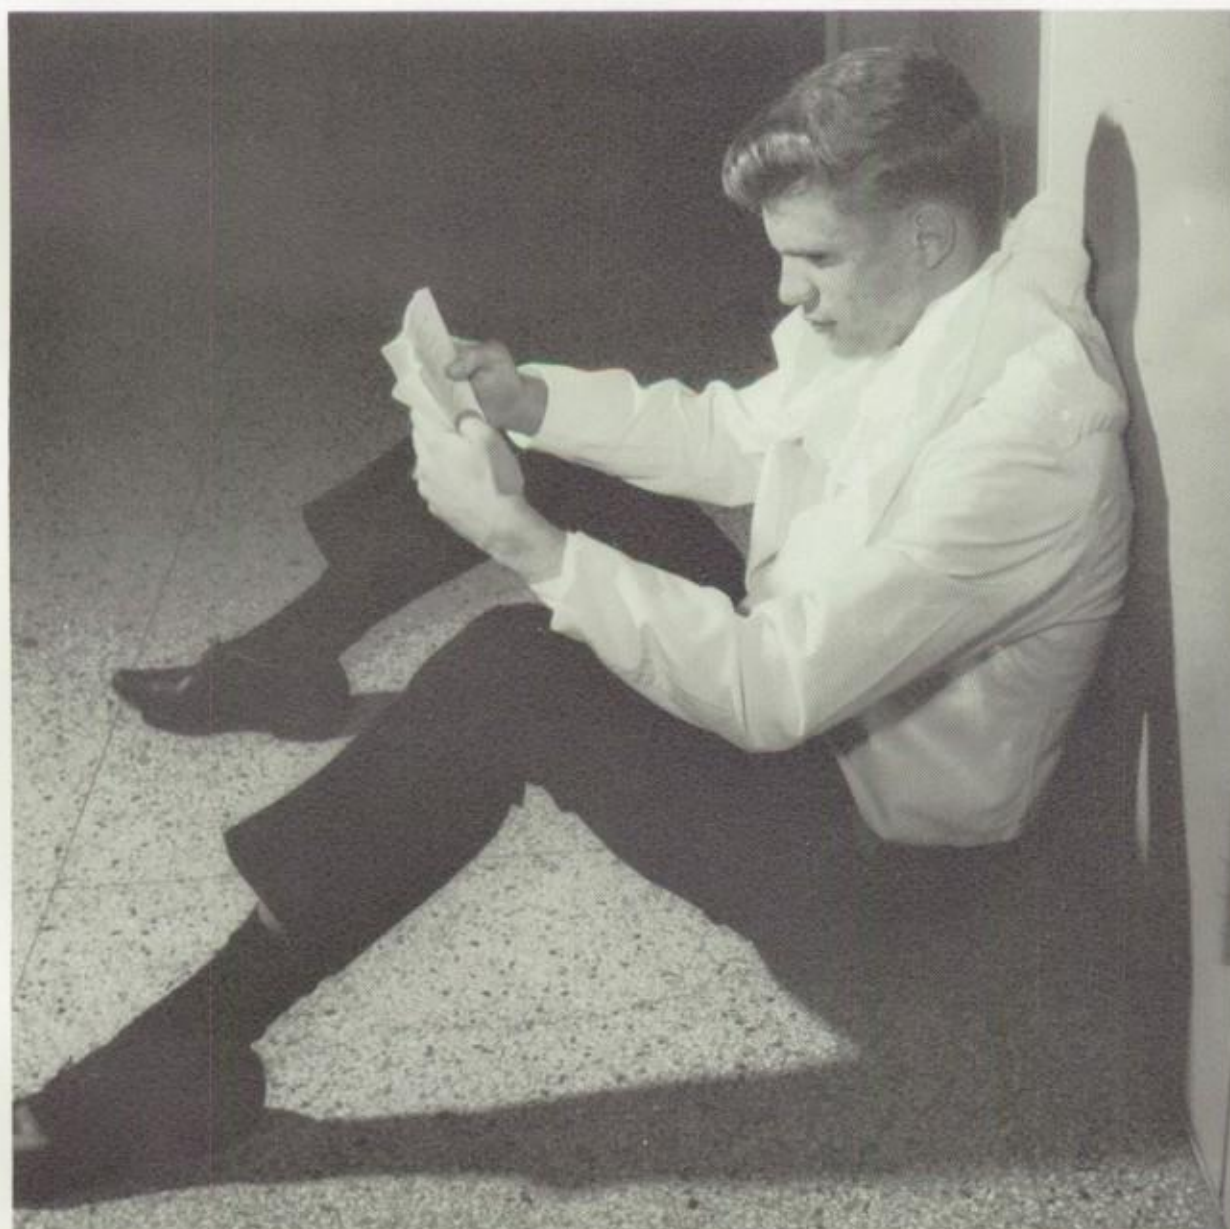

. . . with penetrating silence . . .

... and shadowed walks.

As each individual arrives ...

... he takes his place in the school ...

... and walks towards the future.

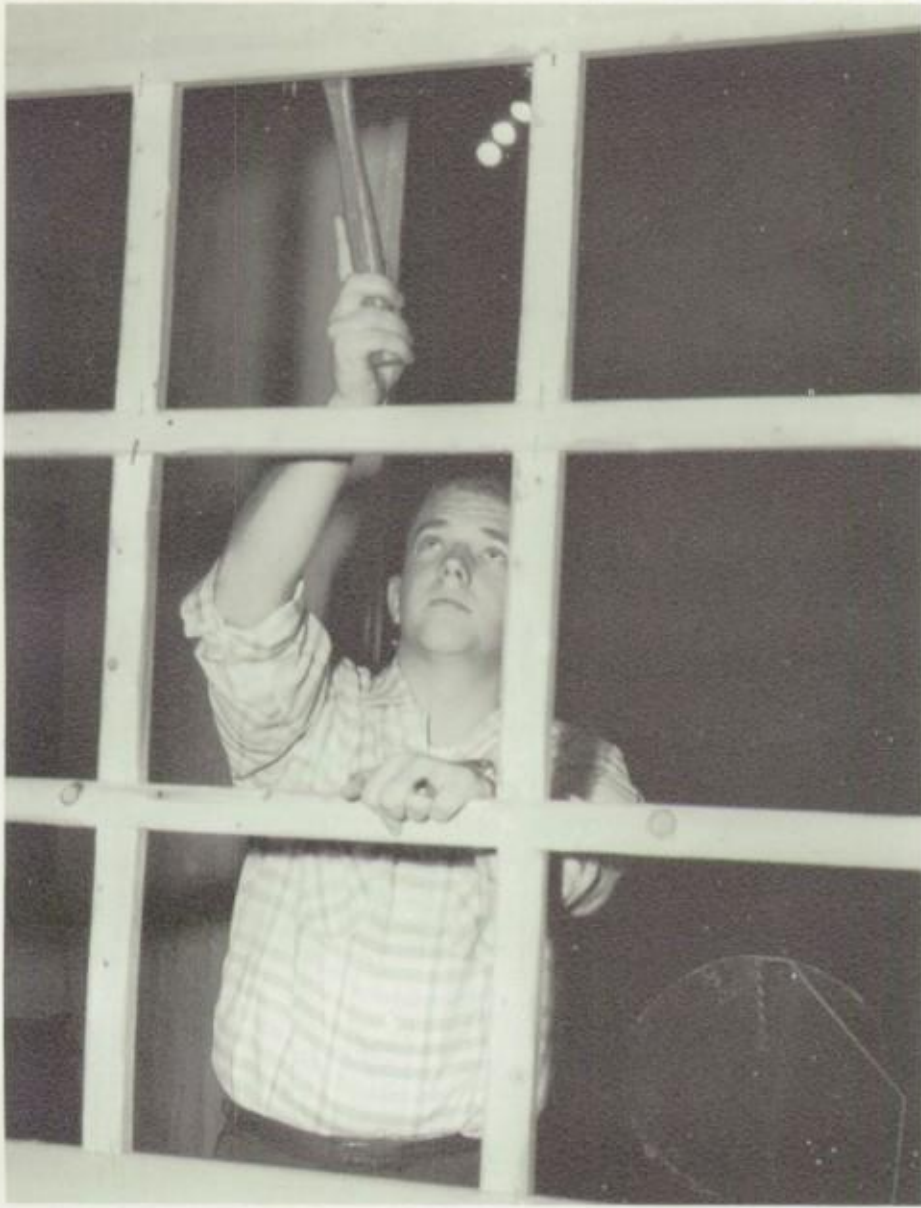

Each will do his part . . .

. . . and will share his moments of serenity . . .

. . . and moments of confusion.

One may contribute voluntary efforts . . .

. . . and must search . . .

. . . and concentrate . . .

. . . to gain practical experience.

Each goes his own way, developing his personality ...

... through scholarship ...

... and through physical fitness.

No matter who he is

... where he goes ...

... what he does ...

... his individuality is prominent.

OFFICERS

A. Gaeta, president, E. Saint, secretary, J. Schroeder, vice president,
J. Formica, treasurer.

Now we are seniors. Now we are graduates. The refreshment stand, college applications, our prom, our play, class rings certainly signify a memorable time in our lives. But there is more than our senior year.

Our Town, the stationery drive, "Parisian Holiday," our record hops are actually not very far away. We do not have to look back very far for a past which will never truly pass by.

Remember the organizing of our sophomore class. "The Enchanted Sea" was our first class effort. We were not much before that little venture.

Freshmen—each town looked across the Commons at the other two. Boundaries were not too slow in breaking, though. All the freshmen did look in the same direction; that direction was up toward that which we are now.

Freshmen . . . seniors, but in only four years.

OUR TOWN

With the audience seated on the bleachers in the gymnasium on the evenings of May 11 and 12, the Class of '63 presented Thornton Wilder's Our Town. Employing the talents of a sundry cast of twenty-three and innumerable members of the class as crew, this tragedy was a success, regardless of the difficulties presented by the production of a play in-the-round. The absence of scenery provided one of the most difficult things to overcome, and often characters forgot to open and close doors, to catch balls thrown up into the air, or to pour proper amounts of food into the proper number of dishes.

Another unique factor was a dual cast, which provided outstanding performances by Guy Carpenter and Jeff Sakal as the Stage Manager, Bob Spenke and Ken David as George Gibbs, and Betsy Saint and Sue Fick as Emily.

"Ooh-la-la!"

"...and don't take any wooden souis"

"All this flapper business."

"Men are the cause of everything!"

"...and that hat!"

With a change of tone from Our Town, the Class of '63 presented Anita Loos' comedy Gentlemen Prefer Blondes on November 30 and December 1. Many members of the cast and crew wondered through those last weeks if there really would be a play. The door, kept falling off its hinges, the wrong numbers were painted on the door, members of the cast kept getting laryngitis and Mr. Martin began getting gray hairs. Finally, stuffed in their costumes with their make-up caked on, the cast presented the zany comedy about Lorelei Lee, the dizzy blonde who lost her traveler's cheques, only to end up marrying Henry Spofford III, a young millionaire. In her search for love, and her traveler's cheques, Lorelei met many "characters," including a bumbling old woman with a passion for cherry cordials, a body guard with a fear of French salons, a woman which was trampled, a beat writer, a few social climbers, two French lawyers, a heel-clicking steward, and many, many more.

GAYLE FANTUZZI

Although as a class we have had many inspirational ideas, only through the assistance of our advisers, Mrs. Fantuzzi and Miss Rudeen, have these ideas come into reality. Counseling the largest senior class that has thus far graduated from Ramapo has not been an easy job, but they have successfully promoted and guided our boundless class spirit. Through record hops, plays, proms, and the refreshment stand, they have encouraged us by their active participation.

While it is difficult to express our admiration for their guidance, patience, understanding, and friendship, we can express our sincere gratitude for their assistance.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—D. Cleary, F. Was, E. Ackerson, E. Knoeller, C. Folsom, R. Sheehan, J. Donohue, I. Smith, S. Daccurso, R. Wright.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

A good school must have a link between the public which supports it and the administration and faculty which operate it. This link is the Board of Education. With untiring efforts, this group of men works behind the scenes to improve the facilities and to secure the best possible teachers, in order to accomplish the primary objective of providing the students with the best possible education.

SUPERINTENDENT

Perhaps the most distinctive characteristic of Ramapo's superintendent, Mr. David Ross, is his personal enthusiasm and concern for the school as a whole and for each individual student. In the past year, plans for a new Indian Hills Regional High School have come into reality. Mr. Ross' coordination of the communities, the administration, and the students has had a great influence on this advancement and improvement.

DAVID T. ROSS
Superintendent

LANGLEY G. CLAXTON
Principal

PRINCIPAL

Mr. Claxton, as principal, has helped lead us through our years of high school with practical wisdom and sound judgment, directing us toward a goal of keeping high standards. He has helped to bind Ramapo into a smooth working unit, and has been alert to what was desired and what was right. Through his concern and awareness of school activities, Ramapo's students leave with a background of a well-rounded education and disciplinary guidance.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL

Sharing the responsibilities of the principal and supervising the IBM data-processing machine are only two of Mr. Edward Watts' duties as assistant principal. He is in charge, too, of organizing an American Field Service Chapter, of scheduling classes, and of supervising instructors. Few realize the intricacies or the full extent of Mr. Watts' job.

EDWARD WATTS
Assistant Principal

William Woods, Victorine Smith, Joseph Sereno

ASSISTANTS TO THE PRINCIPAL

Mr. Joseph Sereno, Miss Victorine Smith, and Mr. William Woods are familiar to the students and administration, not only as instructors in their particular fields, but also as Assistants to the Principal. At any time of day they may be found attending to the numerous necessary tasks in the school routine, such as maintaining discipline and coordinating attendance records.

GUIDANCE DEPARTMENT

Ramapo's students are prepared for the present and the future, as each receives individual advice in selecting a course of study and in obtaining educational or vocational opportunities after graduation. Varied testing programs, informal interviews with college representatives, and a wealth of information concerning colleges, specialized schools, and vocations are only a few of the services of the Guidance Department available to students.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

The English Department, under the direction of Mrs. Ethel Jacobson, recently appointed head of the department, has added to its curriculum this year by introducing book seminars and theater parties to interested students, and has supplemented its course of study with advanced composition and mass communications.

Seated: R. Fonken, H. Struyk, Head; P. Webster, J. Tiefenthaler. Standing: J. Moore, J. Steinkamp, P. Dentz, S. Kaminsky, P. Sapp, V. Raupers, M. Ambrose, H. Dorfman, M. Timko.

HISTORY DEPARTMENT

To teach us of the past, to give us a better understanding of the present, and to help us plan for the future, the History Department offers a variety of courses to instill in the leaders of tomorrow the importance of today's complex world. It teaches social, economic, political, and geographical conditions and the principles of democracy that are applicable to our lives as responsible citizens.

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

Solve this right triangle, find the interest accumulated, solve this equation for "y"—all these are part of the study of mathematics. Meeting modern demands, the Mathematics Department has expanded from the basic college preparatory courses to selected topics and refresher courses and has supplemented these with the Math Club, Math Team, and the National M.A.A. Test.

Seated: B. Ziegler, F. Oakes, Head; M. C. Dilinski, R. Milnor, F. Quackenbush, G. Hudak. Standing: H. Elliot, D. Pelak, A. Macke, F. Chrapliwy, D. Lawshe, H. Pohl, J. Conger, D. Kievit.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

Pedro, formaldehyde, hydrogen sulfide—science lives for students at R.R.H.S. Learning through experimentation, a policy of this department, is made possible by modern equipment and labs. The Science Department has introduced new, advanced courses to the curriculum for aspiring scientists, while other interested students may participate in numerous extra-curricular activities.

Seated: M. Klein, M. Owens, Head. Standing: A. Ruesch, D. De Cicco, I. Shafer, J. Capozzi, T. McKenzie, A. Pelosi, B. Gerber, E. Roses, C. Librizzi, M. House, J. O'Connell.

LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT

The Language Department, under the guidance of Mrs. Ida Marie Owens, offers an excellent opportunity for proficiency in French, Latin, German or Spanish. In addition to the emphasis placed upon the written and spoken language, this department encourages the students' appreciation of the customs, history, and civilization of a country. Enthusiasm gained through class study can be continued in extra-curricular language clubs.

C. Diegnan, Head; A. Petkus, M. Harris, V. Meyers, F. Franzetti, L. Aragona, J. Hulbert.

BUSINESS EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

Preparing students for the competitive business world of today is the main objective of the Business Education Department. Classes in typing, advertising, stenography, and other business courses are supplemented by work in the school store, which provides practical application of salesmanship, and by the decoration of the showcase opposite the school store, which enables the student to practice advertising and display.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

First row: J. Nicodemus, H. Corrizi, J. Iacono, W. Woods. Second row: V. Smith, M. Moran, Y. Boggio, H. Boggio. Not pictured: H. Rumana, Head.

Guiding our spirit into channels which will help us develop a sound mind and body and keeping us in condition for our active lives are two purposes of the Physical Education Department. Sportsmanship and its application in our daily lives are stressed through gym classes, interscholastic sports, and an extensive intramural program.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS DEPARTMENT

With an eye toward the future, Ramapo's Industrial Arts Department aims to develop the skills and abilities of students who wish to work in the industrial and manufacturing fields. The opportunity to use the facilities of the wood shop, mechanical drawing room, and metal shop is valuable to potential mechanics, and the combination of qualified teachers and ample opportunity produces students well-prepared for their chosen vocations.

H. Holtz, R. Siderits, C. Voelkner. Not pictured: J. Fitzpatrick.

ART DEPARTMENT

A. Albert, V. Florio.

Potential and purpose are the requisites for creativity, and so are they the requisites for an art student at Ramapo. Although the object of the Art Department is the development and expression of talent, it serves an indispensable purpose by aiding all student endeavors requiring paper, paint, or artistic faculty.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Appreciation of the fine arts is one facet of education which is often overlooked by many, yet the Music Department provides the students with a rare opportunity to increase their performance or appraisal of music. Both vocal and instrumental music are emphasized, with the various choirs and the band composed of interested students who take music as a course or who participate as extra-curricular members.

W. Collins, J. Siegel.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

This year Ramapo has extended its curriculum to include a department in Special Education under the direction of Mr. Matthew Morris.

READING IMPROVEMENT

The ability to read rapidly is a valuable asset to the student, and likewise, to the homemaker and businessman. Speedy reading, however, is worthless without the comprehension which measures the true quality of learning. This principle is emphasized by Miss Ruth Reager, the Reading Improvement instructor, who also aids those taking College Board Examinations.

Ruth Reager

HOME ARTS DEPARTMENT

E. Rizzo, C. Wiebler.

Practical household experience and the principles of good home-making are provided for the homemakers of tomorrow in the Home Arts Department. The appetizing and appealing appearance of food and the importance of nutrition are stressed by Miss Carolyn Wiebler, and the fundamentals of practical sewing and interior design are emphasized by Miss Evelyn Rizzo.

LIBRARIANS

The library, maintained by Mrs. Florella Hendrikson, Mrs. Alice Lyon, and Mrs. Florence Taylor, is one of Ramapo's most outstanding assets. The librarians are ever willing to aid students in research projects and to keep the library stocked with novels, magazines, and reference works. Mrs. Hendrikson is also the Library Council adviser and the organizer of the Paperback Book Fair.

A. Lyon, F. Hendrikson, F. Taylor.

Martha J. Walker, Nurse

NURSE

Have you a headache? Sorethroat? Then the person to see is Mrs. Martha Walker, Ramapo's nurse. Whether suffering from a minor ailment or a major illness, a Ramapoite can rest assured that competent and considerate help is available through the trained hands of our nurse.

SECRETARIAL STAFF

With a smile and a kind word to all, the secretarial staff performs a myriad of unnoticed tasks to keep Ramapo running efficiently. A vital part of the school, the secretaries organize the attendance, relay messages, and run off the constant stream of papers to be duplicated.

CUSTODIAL STAFF

The students and teachers have been provided with a modern building and spacious grounds, but without the competent, cheerful efforts of the Custodial Staff, the existing pleasant environment could hardly be possible. In addition to the endless task of keeping the sprawling building clean and the numerous windows glistening, Mr. Raymond Rigg and his staff tend the grounds and athletic fields and provide indispensable aid in all class and school projects.

CAFETERIA STAFF

Appeasing the appetites of hungry students is a job well done by Mrs. Laura Mach and her cheerful staff. Mrs. Mach, an experienced dietitian, promotes and directs better and more varied menus in an effort to please the individual members of the school. The cafeteria staff prepares and serves daily, low-priced dinners, in addition to planning special activity dinners and decorating the cafeteria for all holidays.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Becoming a member of the American Field Service, which will eventually lead to the exchange of students, has been one of the highlights of Student Council this year. The entire committee system has been revised and the executive committee has been expanded in order to broaden Council's role in directing school activities and adapting school policies to the students' needs. Council provides a variety of services from inspecting cars in the parking lot to printing maps to away games. One of the Council's major contributions to the student body is the operation of the Book Store.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Dimmed lights, a row of candles, reverent anticipation—thus begins another solemn induction into the David T. Ross Chapter of the National Honor Society. Before induction, an applicant must excel not only as a student, but also as a leader in school and community. After membership is obtained, a member must maintain an eighty-five average and continue to excel in the principles of scholarship, leadership, citizenship, and service.

"Serendipity"—This trademark on the cover of our literary magazine assures the reader that the contents are carefully chosen by a conscientious staff for the benefit and enjoyment of the student body.

From September to February, the staffs of Serendipity, under the competent direction of Mrs. Jane Curley and Mr. Alban Albert, work diligently selecting the stories, poems and art work suitable for publication in a student magazine that must offer interesting views of varied topics in order to appeal to a majority of readers.

With the enthusiastic reception of Serendipity in May, months of worry are replaced by a sense of fine accomplishment on the part of the staff.

AD ASTRA

Most people buy Ad Astra, pocket the receipt, pick the book up at the end of the year, and carry it home. Seniors have more contact with their yearbook as they fill out seemingly endless questionnaires, pose for portraits, and sell patrons and boosters. Yet it is the staff which has made this product possible, and the staff which has lived through the usual looming deadlines, moments of terror and frustration, cold dinners, late, late hours, and despair. It is the staff, too, which wades through boxes of old copy only to find something of value at the bottom. They are the ones who type until fingers are numb and carbon is in shreds. Producing layouts, proofreading, and selling yearbooks, patrons, and boosters—each provides its own problems. No one knows, many work, confusion slowly ebbs away, leaving behind Ad Astra, 1963.

RAMPAGE

"Homeroom will be extended for a few minutes because of the sale of Rampage." This announcement signals the climax of weeks of hectic, but intense labor by staff members, junior journalism classes, and senior editors of our newspaper. News tips, ads, layouts, and piles of copy are all part of the busy routine of this monthly paper. A new feature has been the publication of special editions. Such labor does not go unrewarded; Rampage won fifth place in the 1961-1962 SPANJ newspaper ratings.

BAND

Whether accompanying triumphant cheers or skillfully performing for assemblies and concerts, the band has become an integral part of Ramapo. The smart-looking band marching down the field at football games is indicative of fall. Snappy marches and precision halftime shows are illustrations of the band's proficiency. Year-round rehearsals and practices prepare the band for the popular and impressive winter and spring concerts which it presents in collaboration with the vocal department.

GIRLS CHORALE

VOCAL GROUPS

The singing of an ear-catching melody can be heard nearly anytime of day in the 400 wing. The various groups, the Concert Choir, the Girls' Chorus, Men's Chorus, and the Girls' Chorale, practice daily. Each group must learn and perfect the proper way of expressing its songs. This year's highlights included highly successful winter and spring concerts.

RADIO CLUB

The establishment of a school radio station, one of the first of its kind in the country, was the greatest accomplishment of the Radio Club this year. Members also participated in the field days, repaired and built sets, and studied radio technology.

First row: R. Maeser, D. Fronefield, J. Myrna, R. Sternowski, J. Walsch, E. Brown, J. Stephan, V. Chewning, C. Spender, J. Oldenburg, L. Allegra, Mr. Lawshe, adviser. Second row: B. Lightner, S. Cupak, J. Colvacks, H. Holden, R. Turner, J. Romery, K. Horbatt, R. Van Kampen, J. McDermott, C. Dursma.

MATH TEAM

The math team is comprised of students who are proficient at solving complex mathematical problems. Students compete for permanent and alternate positions. The alternates are several members who serve on a rotating schedule. Each week the group meets to practice for the interscholastic math competitions.

Seated: Mr. Krzeminski, adviser; Miss Dunning, adviser; P. Kraushar, J. Long, S. Hollihan, C. Bowlby, J. Rees, A. Wong. Standing: D. Leich, R. Walker, P. Mowery, G. Diehl, G. Carpenter, R. Cadima, R. Grinwis, E. Lengyel, G. Barrett, J. Drelich.

MATH CLUB

Acquainting interested students with mathematics not taught in the classroom is the aim of the Math Club. Members study the uses and operations of various mathematical tools and put this knowledge to practical use.

First row: Miss Toms, adviser; D. Leich, W. Greenfield, R. Elkland. Second row: A. Wong, J. Romary, J. Keller, S. Strong, C. Ernsdorf, D. White, M. Bertoni, F. Kowar, G. Coshak, H. Sismilich, J. Jaecker.

Frank Chrapliwy, adviser.

CONSERVATION CLUB

The Conservation Club is maintained as an organization for the betterment of Ramapo and the communities it serves. Through this club, students with an interest in the outdoors can give vent to their ideas for the improvement of the school grounds and they can also participate in the club's established activities.

SOCIETY OF ASTRO-PHYSICS

For students interested in astronomy, Ramapo's Science Department offers the Society of Astro-Physics. Members investigate the constellations through the use of instruments they build. Visits to planetariums serve to increase understanding of the scientific field.

*First row: D. White, D. Fronefield, J. Jaecker.
Second row: J. Getker, R. Rodgers, J. Keller.*

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

Darkness and chemical odors seem to close in on the lone figure working in the small room, as only the sound of bottles clanking is heard. Someone from the Photography Club is developing his film. These are his pictures, carefully planned, and taken according to instructions given at the club meeting. These skills, instruction in the process of developing of film, and an appreciation of beauty are but a few benefits derived by the individual from this club.

Seated: Mr. Milnor, adviser; C. Jealous. Standing: G. Koshak, F. Kowar, D. Phillips, C. Murphy, R. Lapinski, G. Moratz, G. Heagen, J. Myers, B. DeYoung, J. Walsh, J. Langedoen, E. Alletag.

AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS

It is the responsibility of members of the Audio-Visual Aids Club to have electronic equipment ready for use by teachers and club advisers. Operation and maintenance of projectors and recorders are taught to club members, who also aid in the presentation of assemblies.

Seated: Herbert Dorfman, adviser. Standing: W. Quackenbush, R. Theiss, J. Walsh.

ART CLUB

Linseed oil on splattered easels, smudges of paint in the sink, and unfinished clay pots are sure signs of Art Club activities. To the knowing, Art Club also means a sock hop, a trip to the Metropolitan, a bake sale, and no sketchniks. Through its varied activities, the club strives to develop artistic and creative ability in its members.

OFFICERS—Cornelia Cahill, president; Jean Fisher, V.P.; Shirley McKinley, secretary; Joyce Allcroft, treasurer; Alban Albert, adviser.

GREGG CHARACTERS

Improving members' speed and accuracy in steno is the main function of the Gregg Characters Club. Girls also improve skill in transcription. The organization supplements classroom work and is beneficial to girls who will seek employment upon graduation.

FUTURE NURSES OF AMERICA

Guest speakers, field trips to local hospitals, and discussions are all part of the diversified format presented by the FNA. Each activity helps fulfill the main objective of acquainting interested girls with the various courses and requirements included in a nursing career.

OFFICERS—May Hackler, president; Susan Jones, V.P.; Susan Searle, secretary; Marie Helmstadter, treasurer; Mary Clair Dilinski, adviser.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Students contemplating a possible career in teaching can benefit from the FTA. Through this club they become acquainted with the necessary educational preparation. A Christmas party for the mentally retarded was only one of many activities this year.

OFFICERS—Donna Speer, president; Valerie Crane, V.P.; Patricia Summer, rec. secretary; Marie Drobinske, corres. secretary; Judith Tamm, treasurer; Sharon Mulligan, historian; Ruth Fonken, adviser.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA

Good business procedures are practiced by FBLA members in preparation for their future careers. Assisting with the operation of the IBM machine, earning money for the business awards, taking field trips, and having guest speakers are all a part of the varied format offered by the club.

OFFICERS—Muriel Ohmen, president; Linda Lakefield, V.P.; Dorothy Bowman, secretary; Marsha Vandervelt, treasurer; Alice Petkus, adviser.

Seated: C. Daccurso, G. Donohue, S. Hess, D. Daybill, J. Watts, L. Taylor. Standing: Charles Martin, adviser; P. Mowery, A. Gaeta, D. Motz, D. Heath, R. Lee, T. Kline.

First row: Miss Rizzo, adviser; J. White, D. Winters, C. Gronemeyer, S. Brahs, V. Shiposh, G. Wong. Second row: R. Threm, S. Kemp, D. Gilbert, F. Bosland, M. Mihalek.

ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE

Plans make the world go round and it is the Assembly Committee's job to plan assembly programs for the student body. It is the committee's responsibility to see that the interests and intellects of Ramapoites are stimulated via the programs and that the traditional assemblies are run smoothly.

NIMBLE THIMBLE CLUB

Limited to twenty girls, the Nimble Thimble Club increases sewing skills through practical application. Some of the attractive displays in the Home Arts showcase are arranged by the club members.

First row: P. Thiele, C. Sobine, R. Kampschulte, K. Gambal, R. Wicks, D. Schumm, M. Mann. Second row: F. Ryan, C. Pearce, A. Buckles, L. Schell, A. Baumgarten, D. Hyzer, M. Swain, F. Lebish, J. White, M. Jackson, K. Zicardi, F. Hendrickson, adviser. Third row: A. Lyons, adviser; A. Vaga, C. Blinkhorn, J. Fisher, E. Wood, W. Greenfield, K. Schroeder, J. Homer, J. Carpenter.

LIBRARY COUNCIL

As a service organization, the Library Council strives to keep the library operating smoothly and efficiently. Aiding the librarians, Council members devote study hall periods to work which varies from arranging books to stamping passes.

TRI-HI-Y

Each year Tri-Hi-Y prepares Thanksgiving baskets and helps support some charitable organization. In order to raise money for these activities and to fulfill the objective of encouraging worthwhile services to home, school, and community, the club sponsored a record sale, a St. Patrick's Day Dance, and a unique "Ugly Man" contest. A highlight of the year was a trip to New York to see "A Funny Thing Happened on The Way to The Forum."

First row: E. Saint, Eleanor Tulner, adviser. Second row: J. Marcalus, L. Mylenki, M. Van Antwerpen, S. Clugh, S. Revack. Third row: C. Neuenhaus, B. White, M. Vanderwart, S. Smart, J. Hanna. BIBLE CLUB

The Bible Club offers students the opportunity to share Christian fellowship and to discuss various aspects of the Bible. Guest speakers on contemporary topics as well as Biblical subjects make the meetings stimulating for all. Meetings are also highlighted by Bible quizzes and panel discussions.

M. Ambrose, J. Shaw, Miss Wiebler, adviser; J. Carpenter, R. Flaker, J. Homer, D. Horvath, L. Teerey, L. Grocheau, R. Lapinski.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

By practical application of the many theories of first aid, members of the Junior Red Cross strive to develop efficiency and understanding to prepare for emergencies. Through the actual performance of basic first aid concepts, members practice for service in the home, the school, and the community.

First row: M. Siegler, P. Sniffin, J. Fiedler, R. Schammburger, R. Ackerman, R. Murphy, J. Swenson, T. Marino, C. Cerutti, J. Ferro, G. Diehl, G. Carpenter, P. Vetreno, D. Matthews. Second row: M. Ross, M. Sullivan, J. Burghardt, D. Pelton, R. Blom, D. Heend, T. Lewerenz, C. Moscrip.

Varsity "R" Club

Priding themselves on good sportsmanship, Ramapo's lettermen provide many services to the school. Among these are regulating the student parking lot and sponsoring an annual Faculty versus Varsity "R" basketball game which provides money for a scholarship fund. The members are an essential part of the "Go Ramapo" spirit.

Swords Club

In its initial year at Ramapo, the Swords Club is a co-educational organization open to fans and participants of fencing. A field trip to the International Fencing Competition was made possible through a successful cake sale.

First row: Mr. Macke, adviser; Miss Webster, adviser; B. Van Blarcom, G. Claeboe, B. Remington, D. Rodgers. Second row: S. Kirk, B. Roger, D. Motz, J. Zellner, C. Messineo, J. McKay, D. Motz, G. JUNIOR CLASS

Inspired by the success of the Carnival, the Class of '64 followed its first enthusiastic undertaking with an active and profitable junior year. The Carnival, the first of its kind at Ramapo, drew people of all age groups with attractions ranging from a sponge-throw to a vaudeville show.

In an atmosphere of Oriental splendor and charm, the Junior Prom, "Shangri-La," brought to life a Far-Eastern utopia. The class then presented "Death Takes a Holiday" on the evenings of May 31 and June 1.

Guided by All-Suburban Coach Prentice Beers, the Raiders gained Ramapo's first N.B.I.L. championship in football. The team, led by co-captains Ed Doremus and Jack Muehleisen, posted a 7-1-1 record, the best in the history of the school. Balance and reserve strength were vital assets in gaining victories over shore-power Asbury Park and arch-rival Ramsey.

All cheering squads have spirit, but Ramapo's had something more—a distinctive unity which sparked enthusiasm at basketball and football games, pep rallies and cheering clinics. This "togetherness" also contributed to the success of the traditional "Kick-off Dance" in the fall. Beginning in midsummer, the cheerleaders practiced throughout the season under the leadership and guidance of Captain Sue Fick and Adviser Yvonne Boggio.

LEADERS' CLUB

Chosen for scholarship, leadership, and athletic ability, members of Ramapo's Athletic Leaders' Club worked to improve our girls' sports program. At bi-monthly meetings, the girls discussed new rules and practiced skills which they used in managing the girls' gym classes and after-school sports.

As a member of the New Jersey Athletic Association For Girls and the Bergen County Girls' Sports Council, the club also planned and participated in many playdays with other Leaders' Clubs. A highlight of this year's program was the basketball game between the "Whimpering Whites" and the "Female Furies."

M. Vanderwart, G. Donohue, S.
Smart, M. Petroccione, managers.

A highly diversified program of after-school sports was offered to each Ramapo girl by our Girls' Physical Education Department. Soccer, speedball, and field hockey were offered in the fall. Popular winter sports included basketball, bowling, volleyball, stunts and tumbling, and modern dance. To round out the season, baseball, archery, and track were offered in the spring. These afternoon sessions provided opportunities for improvement of athletic skills and good sportsmanship.
